Class Competition Guidelines

Each teacher will assist his/her class in submitting a class Presentation of Learning (POL) display that has been developed by the students of his/her class. The displays will be featured during the School Showcase to take place May 14th – May 17th. The class POL display may include but is not limited to: tri-fold display board designed by the class with pictures to illustrate their work on the project; displays of individual and group products produced during the project; digital artifacts and/or products produced during the project, etc. The class POLs will be judged at the school level and a school winner will be chosen in each cluster (K-1, 2-3, 4-6). Each class that is a school winner will be featured in the district Virtual Showcase. The school winners will compete in a district contest and the winners of this contest will receive a set of five iPods as a reward.

School Competitions

- Each school will be responsible to host a Louisiana: Then and Now Showcase (May 14-17).
- A judging committee of the principal’s choice will be established. (Suggestions include: school librarian, assistant principal, guidance counselor, curriculum coordinator, instructional practitioners, retired teachers, etc.)
- Rubrics will be provided to classes in advance so they will understand what characteristics will be judged.
- School contest winners must be decided by Thursday, May 17th.
- There will be a school winner for each cluster (K-1; 2-3; 4-6).
- Each class that is a school winner will be featured in the district Virtual Showcase.
- Each class that is a school winner will participate in the district contest.

District Competitions

- The judging will take place during the ELT school visit on May 21st. The classes will present their projects to the judging committee comprised of ELT members.
- Each class will have 5 minutes to showcase their projects to the judges.
- Judges will ask questions after the presentation is completed.
- Judges will score rubrics individually. ISS/IT will tabulate the rubrics. District winners will be featured at the June School Board meeting.
